The most VALUABLE PROPERTY on the West side of the Mountains offered

FOR SALE.

Plumpsock Iron Works.

WITH about 350 acres of land belonging thereto, will be offered for sale by public vendue, if not previously sold at private sale, on Tuesday, the 18th day of August next, at the Court House, in the the borough of Uniontown. This establishment consists of a forge, rolling mill, grist and saw mills. Also, a large brick dwelling house, furnished in a handsome style, with many other dwellings for the accommodation of workmen, and extensive stabling. It is situate in Fayette county, state of Pennsylvania, in the midst of a highly cultivated country on the state road, nine miles east of Brownsville, on the Monongahela river, and the like distance of Connellsville on the Youghiogheny river, five miles northwest of Uniontown, and thirty nine from the city of Pittsburgh. Bar iron is made in this forge by rolling instead of hammering, of a superior quality. Stone coal is the only fuel used in making it, an inexhaustible pit of which is within one hundred yards of the forge. Three men with a horse and cart are sufficient to raise, coke and haul to the forge all the coal necessary for keeping the works in full operation. They are in good order, the machinery almost new. This property is perhaps the most valuable of its kind in the United States, and by suitable attention, it is believed, may be made the most profitable in its operations.

There will be sold also, at the same time and place, the following

HOUSES AND LOTS,

situate in the borough of Union, to wit:

1. The corner house and lot of ground situate on the north side of Elbow street, immediately east of the Court House, No. 20, being the most eligible as well as the most valuable lot of ground in town.

2. That large House and lot of ground No. 3, and part of the adjoining lot, on the west or the north side of Elbow street, in the occupancy of Cuthbert Wiggins as a tavern stand, fronting on said street about one hundred and thirteen feet.

A Most Valuable Estate.

FOR SALE.

THAT beautiful estate, commonly known by the name of MONTOURS' or LONG ISLAND, about five miles below Pittsburgh, in the Ohio river, containing in the whole 1,000 acres, is offered for sale. It is divided into three separate tracts, on each of which there are handsome improvements: the land is of the best quality, well timbered, and not subject to overflow. It is universally esteemed, both as to soil and situation, the finest property in the western country. The proprietors would prefer selling the whole in a body, but to suit purchasers, it may be divided into three tracts.

The terms may be known by applying to Major Isaac Craig on the premises, or to the subscriber, who is agent for the proprietors, at his office in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh Gazette.

TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 16, 1819.

The following communication, descriptive of a portion of the Lakes and surrounding country, is from the pen of a gentleman, who promises to continue his notes as far as "Green Bay." We thank him, and hope that he will be true to his word. Disgusted as we have been from an early period of our lives with the slang of polemical politics, we resolved, on undertaking the duties of an editor, to avoid as much as possible, the loathsome ground. We hope we have succeeded, although we trust that the character of our paper has been preserved sufficiently distinctive. However, had we entered the arena, with all the fondness in the world for disputation, it is with pleasure we acknowledge, that at present, we would have no room for invective. The tone of American politics has assumed that character, which the federal republican party strove to establish twenty years ago, and for doing which, they were driven from power, by the very men, who are now so literally following their doctrine. By what kind of juggle or harlequinade this change has been, so imperceptibly, as regards the people, but so perfectly, as regards the fact, produced, it is neither our object, nor our wish to enquire. As Americans, we are satisfied that the fact is so, convinced that our march towards greatness is rapid; equally convinced that it will be only successful while our legislators clothe themselves in the mantles of Hamilton and Washington, which those unrivalled men have left,

"A sacred gift to man."

In pursuance of these feelings, we have endeavoured, as much as possible, to devote our exertions to the substantial, physical improvement of our state. It is but a trifling portion of our time that we can snatch from our previously adopted business, to appropriate to editorial duties; but trifling as it is, we have striven hard to apply it to purposes which to our humble capacities, appeared the most important; we know not whether we have succeeded or not; we leave the decision to those, who have taken the trouble to follow us through our ten months career.

We shall be thankful for any communications containing western memoranda of any kind; we should be happy to be able to make our paper interesting to the mineralogist, the botanist, the antiquarian, and the historian. Every thing on these subjects will be acceptable.

To the Editors of the Pittsburgh Gazette.

I take the liberty of sending you a few sketches of a country but little visited, or little known. They are gleaned from occasional conversations with a friend, who was formerly in the habit of annually visiting that section of our country of which I have here attempted a light description. That they may derive an interest from being new, and a reception at least not unwelcome, from the motive which they are given, is the limit of my expectations or wishes.

Sketches of the Upper Lakes, including the settlements of Detroit, Mackinack and Green Bay.

IN making a voyage to the upper Lakes, the most convenient port to make for, from this place, is Erie. From thence you can at any time in the summer season, secure a passage on board some merchant vessel, bound for Detroit or Mackinack. Lake Erie is not so wide but you can at all times, of a clear day, see land on one or the other of its shores. Though not so large as the lakes above, it is not generally considered of so safe or pleasant a navigation. In comparison with lakes Huron and Michigan, it is narrow and shallow. It affords but few good harbours, and is subject to frequent and heavy squalls of wind, creating a short, quick sea, more dangerous and unpleasant than the mountainous roll of lake Huron. The first harbour you make on this passage, is at the islands, near the head of the lake; a large cluster, in the midst of which stand the Put-in-Bay islands, rendered so famous in our last war; here you are, not unfrequently, compelled to lie for several days, waiting a wind for Malden. Your course from Erie, which had been a little south of west, is now changed to nearly N. N. W. to the mouth of Detroit river. The islands in this cluster are very numerous, nor do I know that they have ever been counted. Some of them are large & well timbered, of a good soil and affording quantities of limestone from whence the inhabitants of the southern shore of the lake are supplied with this article. They are again subdivided into smaller clusters, and are designated by the sailor as "the old sow and her pigs, the old hen "and her chickens, the 3 sisters," &c. &c. On some of these there are inhabitants. One of the Put-in-Bay-Islands had been much improved by Col. Edwards of the Connecticut Reserve, who had a good farm and a stock of cattle on it at the commencement of the war, but since his death in 1813, has been little or none attended to. From Erie to these islands is 150 miles and from thence it is 30 more to the mouth of Detroit river, which you greet with infinite pleasure after suffering as you frequently do, in a boisterous and unpleasant passage of six or seven days in a small but dirty vessel. Though latterly the accommodations have become much better, and the steam boat will now almost destroy the unpleasantness of a lake voyage. Malden, a small, dirty town of a few houses and a British garrison, you leave on the east side and pass a little above the mouth of the river up which you continue your course nearly due north. This is a beautiful strait through which all the waters of the upper lakes pass on to the Falls of Niagara.—It is from one to two miles wide, & deep enough to receive ships of the largest class—At Malden alone it is narrow and divided by the Island of Bois Blanc, the ship channel running on the east or British side. Fifteen miles above this, on the same side is Sandwich, a small but handsome town, on the bank of the river and from which you have a full and beautiful view of the city and settlement of Detroit extending for nearly 3 miles along the bank of the river.—This view, of a clear day, is extremely picturesque and beautiful; as the wind gently wafts you up this river, its green banks, fine farms, covered with orchards, and their houses of a singular order of architecture, which you can but just discern through the trees planted around it, of various fruit, or in full bloom, and at every point or high place, the large wings of a windmill attached to a neat round white building, cutting the air, form and finish out a scenery, you can contemplate only with emotions of pleasure.

Detroit is a very old settlement, commenced by the French about the time Philadelphia was, by Penn. The houses, particularly in the settlement above and below the town are built of frame or logs of one low story, and as they are frequently on a large ground plot with high roofs, you would frequently imagine the garret to be the larger part of the house. The town in 1805 was entirely destroyed by fire, since which it has been rebuilt upon a better plan. It has two streets running parallel with the river, and intersected by two other streets and two alleys at right angles. The main or second street from the river is remarkably broad, and having a sandy or gravelly soil is seldom muddy; there is only a part of it paved. The beauty of the place is much injured by the want of a street on the river bank, where the houses have been built so close as to destroy all passage betwixt them and the water. This place has no springs or wells; water for all purposes is taken from the river. Three miles from the town on the bank of the river are two small springs denominated "the Spring Wells" where all classes & fashions resort to in parties of pleasure.

PERIGRINE.

In the notice we yesterday took of the Bill which has passed the Senate for abolishing the credits on sales of Public Lands, &c. we spoke of Mr. MORROW, as the father of that measure. He was the chairman of the committee who reported the bill, and afforded it the aid of his exertions and the countenance of his character. But the credit of originating the measure, we have since learnt, is due to Mr. KING, on whose motion, on the 21st of December last, the Senate came to the following resolution:

Resolved, That the committee on Public Lands be, and hereby are instructed to enquire into the expediency of so altering the laws concerning the sale of Public Lands, that from & after the day of credit shall not be given on such sales, but the public lands shall be sold for money only.

We have pleasure in rendering this justice to Mr. KING; and having this occasion to mention the name of that distinguished gentleman, who, it is possible, may not again take his seat in the Senate, it would be unjust not to say that, whatever may have been, in other days, his political opinions or political course, he will, when he leaves that body, leave behind him the justly acquired reputation of a wise statesman and accomplished legislator.

Nat. Intel.

Cincinnati, March 2, 1819.

SIR,

I now have the pleasure of handing you the report of the committee that examined our situation as Bankers, &c. You will oblige me by having it published in Pittsburgh, in one of the papers, as it may be the means of preventing speculators from buying it of those persons holding our paper, that do not know our situation, at a great distance.

Your friend,
JOHN H. PIATT.

MORGAN NEVILLE, Esq.

TO THE PUBLIC.

In consequence of the circulation of unfavourable reports respecting the solvency of John H. Piatt & Co. bankers, the gentlemen composing the firm called on the undersigned, with a request that we would make an investigation and public exhibit of the concerns of their bank.

After a careful examination of the books and papers of the company, we feel prepared to offer as the result, the following statement, which will shew a balance in favour of the institution of eighty-five thousand four hundred and nine dollars and eighty-seven cents.

STATEMENT
Of the Bank of John H. Piatt & Co.

DR.

Notes in circulation		$242,983
Drafts or bills payable		64,514
Due depositors		19,637 28
		$326,934 28

CR.

Real estate		$87,994
Bills receivable		174,454 14
Drafts on New-Orleans		68,363 68
Drafts on sundry places, and cash on hand		49,096 72
Due from individuals		17,852 61
Advanced on steam boat Gen. Pike		14,600
		$412,364 15
Balance in favour of the bank		$85,429 87

The solvency of a bank which is able to pay its debts, and have a surplus of more than $85,000, when all the debts it owes are less than four times the amount of their surplus, appears to be unquestionable. But, in addition to the above, the holders of their paper have the security of John H. Piatt's private estate, which we have estimated from satisfactory documents, as follows:

Bonds and notes held by him on interest	$65,052 35
This is the balance in his favour after deducting the amount he owes. In ascertaining the amount of debts due by him, we have necessarily had to trust much to Mr. Piatt's honour; but we have no doubt of the correctness of his statement.
Real estate of John H. Piatt	560,250
Total,	$626,302 35
To which add the balance in favour of the bank	85,429 87
Makes,	$711,732 22

The private property of the other partners, which is also bound for the redemption of their paper, is not included in the above statement. It may not be improper to remark, that in answer to a note addressed to the Recorder of this county, accompanied by a schedule of the above property, we are assured, that there is no mortgage against the company on record, & but one against Mr. Piatt: and upon a reference to the schedule, we find it does not effect the property contained therein; and it is believed, that the property situated beyond the limits of this county is equally unincumbered.

The greater part of Mr. Piatt's real property, is situated in the county of Hamilton, and his rents for the last year may be safely estimated at 15,000 dols. and for the ensuing year at 20,000.

As it will appear from the foregoing representation, that the house of John H. Piatt & C have in their possession, active means, independent of their real estate, sufficient for the redemption of all their paper in circulation, provided the influx should not exceed the natural course business. And as this responsibility is supported by an unincumbered estate of more than six hundred thousand dollars; and as much may be also calculated upon the integrity and active efforts of the company, the undersigned feel no hesitation in giving it as their opinion, that the public are perfectly safe in the circulation of their paper.

The cultivation of the Tea Plant is attracting considerable attention in France, where it is said to succeed remarkably well. The plant was first introduced into that kingdom, by a Russian, in 1814, and there are now three hundred in it, stalks, which are to be sold by subscription. The Tea is said to be equal to that produced in China, and has received the approbation of the king's physicians.—The tea plant, the olive, the almond and silk worm find no climate more genial than that of Georgia and South Carolina. The high price of cotton has hitherto induced our citizens to neglect them. Now that it has declined, and will never, in all probability, regain its former standing, we cannot but hope, that some attention will be paid them, and that the inhabitants of the pine woods in particular, employ their soil in the cultivation of articles for which nature seems to have intended it, and which will place them in more easy circumstances they now are, and save annually to the country several millions of dollars.

From the N. Y. Evening Post.

We have received Curracoa papers to the 6th of Feb from which the following extracts are made:

CURRACOA, Jan. 30.

The English schr. Beckles, arrived here on Wednesday afternoon, 3 days from Margarita, and brings letters to the 24th instant from which the following are extracts:

"MARGARITA, Jan. 21.

"There are little news here. The army marched to open the campaign; and, by a Courier yesterday from Augustura, we learn of the arrival of Col. English, with 2500 British troops.

"San Juan Griego, Margarita, January 24.

"A British force has arrived at Guiria, consisting of 2500 men. Brion remains in Pampatar, Joli has sailed with the squadron, 8 vessels, of which he has the sole command. Their destination is unknown.

CURRACOA, Feb 6.

The arrival of English troops at Guayana is now unquestionable, for we have here the official communication received at Margarita from two officers on board the first transport, which I have the pleasure herewith to transmit to you.

Several respectable emigrants have already left this place for Guayana & Margarita. A proclamation issued by the independent government, insures the prompt payment of their passages, &c.

Copy of a letter from two officers on board the first transport at anchor in the Orionoco, to Arismendi, the Governor of Margarita:

"We embrace the opportunity of informing the governor of Margarita, that the ship Perseverance is arrived at Guayana, with two hundred troops, for the government of Venezuela; and we expect in the course of three days ten or twelve vessels more, which whill make nearly four thousand troops.

NEW INVENTED GUN.—The following article may not be unacceptable as being something new.—I was very much gratified in viewing a newly invented Gun by one of our fellow town-men. It is simple and compact, lying on a frame or carriage in a horizontal position, and can by means of a pivot, be brought to bear at any point with great efficacy. It can be fired twelve times in a minute, which discharges eleven balls at each fire with great force—that is, 132 balls in one minute. I have seen it fired at the distance of 600 feet at a target, said to be 15 feet long and five feet high, and the result was that there was not a space of the size of a man's body, but what had received from one to three balls. Indeed it put me in mind of doing business by the gross or wholesale. I also interchanged ideas with several highly respectable naval & military officers, all of whom seemed pleased, and spoke very highly of it. I also learnt that the inventor intends laying it before the proper officers of the government for their inspection; and he must carry with him the best wishes of every generous and philanthropic mind, that he may meet a suitable reward for his laborious study, pereverence and expences, which I am told have been considerable.

EXTRACT,

From the Second part of Mr. Cobbett's "Year's Residence" in the United States of America, just published.

"There are few really ignorant men in America of native growth. Every farmer is more or less of a reader. There is no brogue, no provincial dialect. No class like that which the French call peasantry, and which degrading appellation the miscreant spawn of the funds have of late years, applied to the whole mass of the most useful people in England, those who do the work and fight the battles. And, as to the men who would naturally form your acquaintance, they, I know from experience, are as kind, frank, and sensible men as are on the general run, to be found in England, even with the power of selection. They are all well-informed; modest without shyness, always free to communicate what they know, and never ashamed to acknowledge that they have yet to learn. You never hear them boast, of their possessions, and you never hear them complaining of their wants. They have all been readers from their youth up; and there are few subjects upon which they cannot converse with you, whether of a political or scientific nature. At any rate, they always hear with patience. I do not know that I ever heard a native of America interrupt another man while he was speaking. This sedateness and coolness, the deliberate manner in which they say and do every thing, and the slowness and reserve with which they express their assent: these are very wrongly estimated when they are taken for marks of a want of feeling. It must be a tale of woe indeed, that will bring a tear from an American's eye; but any trumped up story will send his hand to his pocket, as the ambassador from the beggars of France, Italy, and Germany can fully testify.

PITTSBURGH.

Tuesday, March 16, 1819.

After a winter, whose mildness has been without precedent, spring has set in with all the terrors of December. The whole month of March has been a month of snow. It is to be feared that great injury has been done to our grain and fruit. The former may probably be restored by the existing deep snow.

It is reported, we know not on what authority, that the supreme court of the United States has decided that the States have no power to tax the Branches of the United States Bank. We have heard it further stated, that the affairs of the Branch of this place have been canvassed by the Mother Bank, in consequence probably of our late meeting; the investigation, it is said, has resulted highly in favour of the Branch, whose conduct has been approved and commended in every respect.

A law has passed the Senate of this State, repealing the charters of certain banks which do not pay specie this same law, or one having precisely the same operation, it will be recollected, was rejected in this same Senate, some days ago. If this be not trifling with the people, we know not what is. Rejecting a law one day and bringing it up next, is certainly an admirable invention for eking out a session. Poor Pennsylvania! Internal improvement which ought to have been the Shibboleth of every member, has been entirely lost sight of, for the puerile objects of punishing Mr. Sergeant, or of checking the operation of a few Banks, which must stop of themselves without any legislative interference; but which will seize with avidity, on any good excuse given by the legislature for enforcing payment from their borrowers, without that leniency, which, without this excuse, would certainly have been granted.

It is a subject of regret, that in the administration of our general government, so few of its little courtesies are extended to the citizens of the west; this is the fault of 'every reign since the establishment of our independence, and we are sorry to find Mr. Monroe falling into the same error, for he occupies the chair of the nation, at a time when there is less palliation for this neglect, than during any previous administration.—The western country is now charged with population, and with due deference be it spoken, with a population as well informed, as well educated, and as fit for employment, as any part of the Atlantic states, cities included. There appears to be a kind of repugnance to looking west; the idea of a tramontane consul or charge des affairs, in a foreign country, seems to be as preposterous to our cabinet as it does to a Philadelphia dandy, who considers every excellence bounded by the Schuylkill to the west. Surely, the manner in which Henry Clay played his part, on the theatre of European politics, when the eyes of the whole continent were fixed upon him, might tend to remove this contracted prejudice. It has not, however. If a charge des affaires an envoy, or consul is to be appointed, the executive eye is never cast beyond the bounds of one of the Atlantic cities. With the exception of Mr. Campbell, we do not know that a single foreign appointment, even a secretary of legation, is filled from the west. It may be said that most of these situations are not lucrative; be it so; but they are posts of honour, and we, in the west, are as alive to this feeling, as any portion of the union. Attention to minutæ has a wonderful effect on all human affairs; in keeping down jealousies and destroying prejudice, it is all powerful. If there be a subject on which the people of the western states are peculiarly sensitive, it is that which involves a proper degree of respect for themselves; probably it is carried to a point bordering on extravagance. This is, however, owing to the frequent injuries their feelings have received from the contempt or inattention of the east. We occupy the situation of the Hindoo Pariahs; we are a sect excluded from honours; in the mildest Atlantic acceptation, we are the pioneers of civilization; we are the hewers of wood, sent out by nature to soften the asperities of a new country, and to make it ready for the reception of the nabobs from the other side of the mountains, when they choose to invest their loose funds in lands from which those fellows, (meaning ourselves) have expelled the wild Mohawk and Delaware. We are sorry to see Mr. Monroe forgetful of these little attentions. We were vain enough to think, that after he had passed through a portion of our country on the Ohio, he would have been ever ready to recognize our equal claims to executive compliment, as well as for the more substantial portion of political privileges. We believe our President has committed this violence on western pride, more from the force of habit than design; but still the injury is the same.

We have been led to make these observations from seeing the list of appointments lately made by the President; from the cursory glance which we took of the list, we do not recollect more than one or two appointments to posts of honour selected from the west, while the eye constantly rests on "Mr. A. of Baltimore, Mr. B. of Philadelphia and Mr. C. of New-York." Are talents, because they bloom in a spot inaccessible to the sea-breeze of the Atlantic, never to be drawn forth into public view? is genius to be useless because it does not blow in the line of telegraphic range between Charleston & N. York? are enterprize and ambition to droop into despondency, because they happen to be located on the banks of the Ohio, or on the plains of Missouri? Is there nothing to redeem us in the chivalric daring of a Jackson, in the patriotic boldness of a Johnston, or in the dazzling eloquence of a Clay? Is it to be forgotten that James Ross, whose character as a statesman, a scholar and an orator will last as long as the archives of Congress are preserved, first burst into political notice from the bosom of the western wilds; that he grew with their growth, and has become identified with their interests? If proud independence be the character of the American mind generally, it is peculiarly so as regards the west; the Missouri planter and trader, already begin to murmur at these slights. The western father who is devoting his time and fortune to the education of his sons, to give them just and great views of policy and jurisprudence, has still the mortification to feel that unless in the little circle in which he moves, it is more than probable his time and pains will be thrown away, because he had not the supreme honor of residing in a city, in which his children might have imbibed the first rudiments of diplomacy, in the usual elementary situation of a super-cargo to the West Indies. These indignities will not be passed over much longer in silence; complaints will reach the District of Columbia; complaints that must be heard, and must be attended to.

From the Western Monitor.

INTERESTING AND IMPORTANT DECISION.

The Circuit Court of the United States for this district, at a special session in this town, after an able argument by Messrs. Wickliffe and Barry, in behalf of the United States' branch banks, and the Attorney General, Mr. Blair, on the part of the Sergeant of the Court of Appeals, yesterday granted an injunction, to stay—till the next regular term of the Court, in May—all proceedings under an act of the legislature for imposing a tax on the offices of discount and deposit of the United States' Bank in this state, requiring however of the directors of those institutions bond and security, in the penal sum of $40,000, conditioned that their property shall not be so removed, until the further order of the Court, as to prevent the future collection of the tax, if it should be finally decided, that the law can be constitutionally enforced.

The court assumed jurisdiction, on the ground, that an act of Congress and the Constitution of the United States were involved, and that, though a state may be affected by the decision, it is not necessarily nor in fact a party.

No opinion was given as to the constitutionality of the United States' Bank or the right of a state to tax that institution, but the court decided that the state law (which it did not consider as a measure of taxation, but rather as an act imposing a penalty, for doing what a law of the United States authorizes,) being in conflict with a law of the general government, the latter must prevail until pronounced unconstitutional by the competent tribunal. The court refered to a late descision of the General Court of Kentucky, in support of the doctrine, that a state cannot impose a penalty on its citizens for acting under a law of the United States. It was stated too that no evil could result from granting the injunction, until the decision of the supreme court of the United States, before whom the main question is now pending, as to the right of a state to tax the United States' Bank, should be known; since the state rights would remain unimpaired, and at the next term of the court the injunction would, if necessary, be removed.

LAUNCH OF THE COLUMBUS.

The Columbus, 74, was launched yesterday, about 12 o'clock, from the Navy Yard into the Eastern Branch of the Potomac, amidst the shouts and acclamations of more than 10,000 spectators and a discharge of cannon from the yard. She entered the water in a truly majectic style, and exhibited, as she swam, a bulwark of symmetry and buoyancy highly honourable to her architectural constructors, and gratifying to the heart of the patriot.

The President, Heads of Departments, Members of Congress, & Foreign Ministers attended, to witness this interesting sight: and we heard of no accident to interrupt the general pleasure of the day.

PERPETUAL MOTION.

OSWEGO, (Broome Co.) Feb. 9.

A very curious machine; apparently possessing, within itself, to move and to continue its motion, has been exhibited in this vallage for some time past. The machine consists of eight wheels, six of which appear to be of no other use than to add velocity to the eighth. The first and principal wheel, gives motion to all the rest; it contains about 20 buckets; eight of these buckets, which are contiguous to each other, and upon one side of the wheel, contain each a small ball; the upper one being placed a little out of the line of direction, forces that side of the wheel which contains the weights to gravitate. At the lowest point of descent, these balls are successively discharged, one at a time, into the eighth wheel, which carries them up and deposites them again in the original wheel. One of these balls in ascending, (owing to the increased velocity of the eighth wheel) occupies but one fourth part of the time that is occupied by the first wheel in descending, through the space intervening between two of its buckets, so that three fourths of the time, the eighth wheel is without any weight in it. The accelerated motion that this machine acquires by all the weights being in the principal wheel so great a portion of the time is sufficient to counteract the reaction of the ascending ball; so that the machine in making this revolution, loses none of its original force. The construction is simple, and the whole movement is obvious at a single glance. The inventor, is a Mr. William Foster, of this town, an ingenious and self-taught mechanic, who, we understand, intends taking the machine to the city of Albany, during the present session of the legislature, to exhibit for the gratification of the curious and the learned.—Gaz.

Longevity.—Departed this life, on the 19th of February, Flora Ferguson, (Negro) aged one hundred and thirty years. This woman was born in Guinea, where she remained until she was upwards of sixty years of age, at which time she was kidnapped and brought to America, where she has been seventy years. On the morning of her death, she ate a hearty breakfast and went to bed and remained until dinner, when the family went to awake her, and behold she was dead.

From the N. Y. Commercial Advertiser March 4.

Latest from England—Last evening the Packet ship Courier, Bowne, arrived from Liverpool, whence she sailed the first of January. To the polite attention of Captain Bowne, and our attentive London and Liverpool Correspondents, we are indebted for London papers and Prices Current to the evening of December 30th, Lloyds and General Shipping and Commercial Lists to the same date, and Liverpool papers to the first of January. The ship Hercules, Cobb, which sailed from Liverpool for New-York, on the 25th of December, was driven, the next day, on the Rish bank, on Dublin, but, soon got off, with the loss of her rudder; the ship then perfectly tight. On the 27th, she went into Holyhead, with the assistance of a Liverpool pilot boat. On the 28th, in attempting to get into deep water, the pilot run the ship on a bank, where she remained at the last advices.—

The resolution offered by Mr. Spencer, in relation to the United States Bank, is published in the Times of the 30th of December.

An article from Hanover of the 18th of December announces, that the Assembly of the States had abolished the torture in criminal examinations, and that it was expected the trial by jury would be adopted.

On the 12th of November the plague still raged at Tangiers. The number of deaths amounted to about 50 per day.

It is stated, that in the room where the body of Weller (who had just been executed for uttering forged notes,) was laid in the coffin for interment, a new plan was formed, to go more extensively into the same business, of passing counterfeit notes.

A "rescript" is immediately to be issued respecting the late plot at St. Helena. It is said it will be signed by the Emperors of Russia and Austria, and the King of Prussia.

The celebrated general Sarrazin has been imprisoned in Paris, on the charge of bigamy. It is stated that three ladies claim him as their husband; one of them is an English lady, whom he married in London.

LONDON, 27.

The metropolis was on Tuesday enveloped in a fog, the most dense that has been witnessed for several years. The darkness in the early part of the day was not so very great as to be attended with any extraordinary inconvenience; but it gradually increased, and about 4 o clock it became impossible to discern an object at the distance of a few paces. The carriages and waggons moving along the streets were not discernable from the flag-ways, and the passengers on the latter derived very little aid from the lights in the windows, or in the lamps, as most of the shops, from fear of accidents, were shut, and several of the latter were extinguished by the fog; even those which did burn afforded but a very feeble twinkling light, not visible until a near approach. The coachmen alighted from their boxes to lead the horses, and the link-boys were in great numbers to offer their assistance; but with every possible care and precaution the passengers both on foot and in carriages, seldom succeeded in making their way without mistakes, and horses and carriages frequently deviated from the streets to the flag-ways, to the imminent danger of the passengers. The noises made by the people in the streets, were frightful; some shrieking from terror when surprised by the sudden approach of a horse or a carriage, and others calling out to their fellow traveller to warn them of danger, or anxiously enquiring their way. In many cases the company deserted their carriages, which remained stationary, the coachman not knowing where they were. Various sums, from half a crown to ten shillings, were obtained by link-boys for conducting a carriage throug a single street. In the theatres, the actors on the stage were scarce visible to the audience; and even private houses, though closed and well furnished with fires were filled and darkened with this unwelcome visitor.

PARIS, Dec. 26.

At last the divisions in the Ministry have led to a general rupture. On Thursday all the Ministers gave in their resignations, and the king accepted of them all, with the exception of that of the duke of Richilieu, who immediately formed a new Ministry, composed as follows:—M. Cuvier, (the great naturalist, who was lately in England,) the new Minister of the Interior; M. Mollien, (formerly Minister of the Treasury during the reign of Bonaparte, a place which he held even during the hundred days,) Minister of Finance; M. Simeon, (Member of the Chamber of Deputies, who had been counsellor of State under Bonaparte, and Minister of justice in the kingdom of Westphalia) Minister of justice; M. de Villele (Member of the chamber of deputies) Minister of Marine; and Count Law de Lauriston (Peer of France, aid-de-camp of Bonaparte, and his ambassador at the Court of Petersburgh during the years 1811 and 1812) Minister of War.

According to this new arrangement, the ministry of police was to have been suppressed. Yesterday, by 5 o'clock in the afternoon, all these gentlemen had declined the places tendered them, with the exception of M. Cuvier. M. M. Mollien and Simeon refused office, from a fear that they might be required to give their sanction to measures which they regard as anti national; and M. M. de Villele, and Lauriston (two Ultras) declined to act, unless a pledge were given by their colleagues, that they would support such modifications of the laws of elections and recruiting as would render them more monarchical.

There be who sigh for the scorching flame,
Of fev'rish passion's fire,
Who think all feeling cold and tame,
That thrills not through the quiv'ring frame,
With the throb of flush'd desire.

There be who shun the paths of bliss,
Lest pain should follow too,
Who fly from the joy of an innocent kiss,
With heads and hearts as cold, I wis,
As the frosty Autumn dew.

Oh give me the bright and roseate way,
That smiles in the midst between,
Where beams love's warm and sunny day,
To gild with its mild and glad'ning ray

OBITUARY.

DIED,—On Tuesday morning last, at half past 4 o'clock, WILLIAM FRIEDT, Esq. of this town, aged about 63 years.—Mr. Friedt was a native of Neuwiedt, in Germany, but emigrated to this country early in life. He has held the office of Commissioner of Westmoreland county; represented the same county for some time in the general assembly of the Commonwealth; was for a long time treasurer of the borough of Greensburgh, and, at his death, treasurer of the Greensburgh and Pittsburgh Turnpike road company. He was sternly honest—an expert and very accurate calculator—full of publick spirit—had no family, but considered his talents as due to the public; he was therefore a very useful citizen, and performed more for the good of society than many who had a much greater stake in its welfare. He was employed as an arbitrator in nearly all the referred disputes that have occurred among us for many years. He was careful in forming his opinions; but having formed, was very pertinacious in support of them. Though irritable and hasty when opposed, he has not, probably, left behind him a single enemy. The probity of conduct and intention that distinguished him, disarmed hostility, and cast his imperfections into shade. He will long be remembered as a useful citizen, and an honest man.

Valuable Estate with Merchant Mills, for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for Sale FIVE HUNDRED ACRES OF LAND, adjoining Noblestown, situated on Robinson's run in Fayette township, Allegheny county, Pa. twelve miles from Pittsburgh; on which, there are improvements equal to any in the western country, consisting of a merchant Grist MILL, SAW-MILL and CARDING Machinery, all lately rebuilt anew and in complete order, about 200 acres cleared, and under good fence, of which a sufficient proportion is bottom and good meadow—a large orchard of choice fruit of different kinds. There are on different parts of the tract, two large, well finished and convenient square log houses, one of which has an additional building of stone, with two convenient rooms. There are stables, a barn and other out houses This tract is well watered, and can all be cultivated. It is susceptible of division, and will be divided to suit purchasers. The Mills, one dwelling house with from fifty to two hundred acres can be laid off in one tract, and the balance will be sold altogether or divided to suit purchasers. For a farther description and terms of sale, apply to the subscriber, on the premises, or to John M'Donald, esq. Pittsburgh.

HENRY NOBLE.

september 18, 1818.

PATENT GAS FIRE,

FOR STEAM BOAT.

A CONCENTRATED FUEL for Steam-Boats has been invented, consisting of Tar or other carbonaceous substance, commingled with Steam,

The apparatus is simple; the management easy and safe. It is a great auxiliary to a wood or coal fire, which it both enlivens, encreases and saves—for it seems to combine so rapidly with the oxygen of the air, as to prevent the wood from wasting or consuming so fast as usual, the blaze, notwithstanding, being very active and intense.

The apparatus consists of a double vessel of copper or iron, cylindrical, lying on its side, upon or rather between the boilers, if there are 2.

Tar, Turpentine, Rosin, Spirits, Oil, or other combustible fluid, being put into the inner one, steam is allowed to flow from the boiler through a pipe and cock into the space between and thro' a few holes on the upper side of the inner one to press on the surface of the tar, which being heated by the surrounding steam, is at pleasure driven out through a small pipe (having a stop cock) meeting and uniting with another pipe leading out steam from the space between—the continuation of the pipe then leads to the fire or flue. The longer this pipe (if kept hot) the better. It need not be more than a quarter of an inch in diameter.

In its way the tar is extremely attenuated and mingling with the steam. Some chemists are of opinion that by the attraction of its carbon, it decomposes the steam into the constituents of water, oxygen and hydrogen, and combines with them to form the highly inflamable Gasses, carbonic-acid and carburetted hydrogen, or if not thus formed in the pipe, they are produced at or near its orifice, which need not be more than the tenth of an inch diameter for a boiler of considerable size.

The only art in management, is to graduate the flow of the tar and steam to such proportion as that neither shall appear to predominate, and in taking care that the fluid be previously strained so as not to obstruct the pipe by any extraneous particles. This will easily be done by placing a seive over the reservoir, from which a pipe (having a stop cock) leads into one end of the tar vessel. There is of course a safety valve and a stop cock to draw the condensed steam from between the two vessels, formed there in the beginning of the operation, while the tar was at a low temperature. Its position on the boilers will, however soon heat it. Tar boils only at a much higher temperature than water—there is therefore no danger from it.

The advantages of this kind of fuel will be very great in long passages. No steam boat or vessel can navigate the Ocean without it: and it will be found economical and convenient in every situation.

Being of recent origin, it has not been put in practice in many instances, but in several, under my own observation, and witnessed by many persons, its effects are admirable.

This advertisement is intended to offer its use gratis to a few boats, whose proprietors shall first obtain a licence. The price of this improvement afterwards will be several thousand dollars per boat, which it will be found economical in most situations to pay. The patent right for local use will be for sale after its value shall be further tested.

Licences to use this invention will be granted by

JOHN L. SULLIVAN,
Assignee of the patent of Samuel Morey.

Boston, February 19, 1819.

Two Hundred Dollars Reward.

IN consequence of forged letters presented to the subscribers about the 7th of January last, representing the bearer to be Mr. Hunt, and nephew of the President of the Farmer and Mechanics Bank of Lexington, a parcel containing post notes and notes of 50 and $100 executed for the Newport Bank, Kentucky, was delivered to him. As there is no doubt that Hunt will attempt to sign and circulate said notes, the above reward will be given for his apprehension and conviction. Hunt is a man of genteel appearance and address; sallow complexion, and rather above the middle stature.

As the Newport Bank has never had in circulation either notes of 50 and $100, or Post notes, any notes that may be offered of this description must be counterfeits. Banks, Brokers and others, are requested to be on the alert, should any of these notes be presented.

MURRAY, FAIRMAN & CO.

Philadelphia, Feb. 9, 1819.

English, Classical & Mathematical ACADEMY.

A. TIERNEY & J. CALLAN, respectfully acquaint their friends and the public that they have determined to associate themselves on the first of April next, for the purpose of conducting an establishment of the above nature; and have, in consideration of the health and accomodation of their pupils, rented for a term of years that large and commodious dwelling-house, in Fifth street, between Market and Wood streets, now in the tenure of James Pentland, esq. in which they intend fitting up two separate and spacious apartments, for the reception of youth of both sexes. The house is healthfully situated, the rooms airy and well lighted, and sufficiently large to accommodate 150 students—attached to which is an enclosed lot, to be set apart as play-ground.

Tierney & Callan feel considerable pleasure at this time to acknowledge the patronage each has so liberally experienced for himself, during a short period; and offer severally their most grateful acknowledgements.

It is their design to conduct the institution on the most liberal principles; to have good discipline, and to inculcate a conscientious adherence to morality.

Their course of instruction will comprise Orthography, Orthoepy, Reading, English Grammar, Composition, Elocution, History, Penmanship, Arithmetic and Book-keeping (after a new and improved method) Geography, use of the globes, Mensuration, Geometry, Trigonometry, Surveying, Navigation, Algebra, &c. &c. also, the Greek and Latin Languages; all which will be radically taught, according to the most approved methods of Trinity College, Dublin.

The pupils will receive from time to time explanatory lectures on each branch, to make theory familiar with practice; to remove difficulties, known to perplex learners; and chiefly to œconomise time, too often irretrievely lost.

From a conviction that such an institution might fairly present itself to a discerning public for aid, the proprietors humbly solicit countenance and support; and they do most sincerely hope, by a faithful discharge of duty to merit a liberal patronage.

Their terms will be moderate, and may be known (until the 1st of April,) by application to A. Tierney, at his school-room in Third street, or J. Callan at the "Smithfield Seminary."

Public quarterly examinations will be held.

Pittsburgh, February 23. tIMa.
